Foreword

You are now going on a quest. An epic quest that will lead you through the perilous, occasionally disaster-filled, yet fulfilling and possibly revolutionary, world of doing SBC projects.

You already have the power and knowledge within to complete the quest, triumphantly of course. Hence the intent of this guide is simple: to offer additional resources that will accelerate the sweet victory of your quest. These resources are placed in the (fantasy) 'E.P.P.O.T world' that can only be accessed by the ones who possess this guide.

Within the pages of this guide, you will find a map with six realms; each primed with different resources that seek to level up your XP¹, reward coins, provide wisdom to navigate through tight spots, and assist you a trusty wing-man. In Olaf's words: "All good things".

Remember: All heroes become heroes not through legacy, but through the journey of doing the quest. If you undertake it for the right reasons, the experience is its own reward.

Your journey is about to begin, Players. And on that journey, we wish you luck.

¹ Experience points: A unit of measurement for improvement or achievements that contributes to growth in the desired area of your life.

Part 1 – Introduction

We have 15 teams on different SBC projects. These projects can be categorised as either OneLTA (top down) or Dare-to-try (grounds up). Each project here is identified as a quest. And you, my friend, is a hero to be, a player. The premise of your quest is simple: complete it.

By the way

- See the full list of the quest and questers here.
- What's the difference between OneLTA and Dare-to-try projects?

Quest board

In the spirit of questing, we have a quest board to show the progress of your team's quest and the coins your team accumulated. The coins are awarded each time the team participates in community activities.

Quest board is updated monthly. Ranking is solely based on the quest progress. Progress: Shows the % of the project completed by the team. Bottom number shows the progress achieved for the month. Coins: Total accumulated based on the level of activity of the teams. The amount of coins awarded for participation of activities varies.

Putting it out there... By using these metrics, we are explicitly stating, “This is what is most important to us.” That’s because it is. We think these metrics offer a good enough understanding to how each team is progressing in the areas which mean the most to us and the organisation. The intent of the quest board is to allow quick and concrete insights on the level of progress and contribution of each team, serve as an accountability platform, give recognition to the teams who are going off on the quest faster than Sonic the hedgehog.

By the way:

- Both metrics that will be gathered monthly, during your check-ins with your TO steward. This quest board will be shared regularly with all quest teams, CTO, DCEs and CE.
- See the coins? The top winning teams will have their accumulated coin converted into real dollars and cents, that contributes via a donation to a charity of your team’s choice. You can learn more about how to earn coins here and here.

Quest loots

Every team will commence their quest with an allocation of $5,000 for use in FY20/21. For OneLTA: additional allocation of $20,000 for FY 21/22. As a general rule of thumb: the how/what on the usage will be entirely up for the team to decide as long as the outcome(s) builds on your team’s efforts and project purposes. If you are still not sure, we have prepared a simple litmus test for players to use to decide on the suitability of the intended use. You can refer to it here. To access the $5000, drop a line to your TO steward.

Contribution appraisal

What happens in SBC quests does not stay in SBC quest land. Players may include the work in SBC projects as one of the KRAs in your annual and mid-year appraisal via HR Link.

For questers in OneLTA project: Due to the bigger team size and longer project cycle, there will be an additional level of feedback gathered from respective project members and leads for OneLTA teams only. This feedback gathering will be carried out at the end of the project cycle via the ‘performance scroll’ provided to Project Leads. TO will work closely with HR to ensure that the inputs received from all platforms will be collated and play a form of valuation during the annual staff ranking exercise.

By the way:

- Keeping to the primary purpose of providing people with information to help them grow, the best quality feedback is brutal honesty, and intended to be put to use by the person feedbacked on.

Part 2 – Six Realms of E.P.P.O.T World

- The team is wearing the best armour. You are now ready to go on a quest.

(To be read using Jeff Goldblum's Jurassic Park voice) Nestled in the uncharted backwaters of galaxies, lies an insignificant flatland called E.P.P.O.T world. So non-descript was it that a pedestrian interstellar-traveller exclaimed "what a God forsaken place!" in a fortuitous landing (thus coining the figure of speech). The world remained unvisited, yet unbeknownst to many, the E.P.P.O.T world has six (!) realms carrying all that is needed to set players of the remarkable SBC quest, for success.

Obviously, you can't find the place in Google map. Lucky for you, we have the full map here:

What you see is a boring moorland like landscape: some with uninteresting concrete facade, while some have a coin shaped edifice. Don't be fooled as each carry an interesting function of its own (hint is in the name).

Putting it out there.... The realms are not crafted to run like 'Hunger Games²'. Rather, think of it like "Choose your own adventure" story. It is entirely up to you and your team to decide how much you want 'stop by these realms' and tap on these resources.

Remember how Elsa in Frozen 2 raised her palm into the misty fog and immediately, the fog magically lifted to uncover the beautiful enchanted forest? We liken the approaching of each realm to be something like that for you. When doing so, all we ask for you is to sing it like Elsa did (with full gusto): "into the UNKNOWN!!"

² Hunger games: A competition set in dystopian world, in which representatives from twelve resource and food starved districts compete for their life and the winner hails a bounty of food for their district.

Characters you will meet

You will meet different characters who will engage and help you in different ways. Here are the quest-worthy ones who might be able to lower the difficulty level of your quest:

By the way

- Quick guide to help you figure out who to look for during your quest

Your most important role

As players in your own quest, you and your team are the protagonists. The protagonists run the show, period. This means, all players in the team will:

- Initiate partnerships (e.g. with line units), discussions (e.g. with TO steward, EPPOT advisor), work (e.g., roadmap, prototyping, etc.) required to support your project.
- Exercise integrity for the usage of the project funds, and all resources extended to you.
- Be open and collaborative. One good way: if you see opportunities to improve the way we do, share them. We will all do better if everyone seeks to encourage and inspire each other.

Part 3 – Gain XP, Earn Coins

Image credits to Nintendo

There are two realms that hold activities for quick levelling up of one's heroic strengths. Coins will be rewarded to the team each time one of their player partakes in the activities. The amount of coins the team has, is therefore a good metric to how much XP you are investing in yourself and in your team!

Realm of E.P.F.O.T Learnings

➤ Level up and lower the quest difficulty level.

Always wanted to attend the Coursera course by Yale? Or to learn Machine learning? Now you can. Best part: there is full sponsorship (with no string attached) for just that.

All players will be able to tap into a common pool of $25,000 to sign up for learning programmes³. Usage will be on a first come, first serve basis. To apply for the learning programmes, drop a droid line⁴ to your TO steward.

You can earn coins in this realm:

- 10 coins awarded to the team for each quester who registers for any course.
- Additional 10 coins awarded to the team with more than ½ of the team questers partaking in the same course, in the same session.
- Higher coins will be awarded for courses listed in the 'Scroll of Masterclasses'
- For questers who are involved in more than one quests, coins will be awarded to quests you are involved in.

⁴ Droid-line: An email.

Learning programmes that are eligible for tapping into the $25,000 common pool may be:

- Picked from the 'Scroll of Masterclasses' (a list of specially curated workshops on process improvement tools very suited for SBC quests).
- (Self-identified) public-run courses with project-related or self-development related teaching.

On the latter category, the easiest way for you to assess the suitability of the course is through asking yourself the following questions:

- Will this power up my individual strengths or help me overcome my weaknesses and engineer me into an awesome, unstoppable machine?
- Do the learning outcomes have a positive impact on the quality of work delivered in your quest or core work?
- Will it bring you to be the path of becoming a supervillain or superhero? (We will only approve the one that puts you in the superhero route. Obviously.)

By the way:

- The "Scroll of Masterclasses": specially curated list of public run courses with teachings that will provide immense XP boost to the player.
- Players are to exercise own discretion in seeking respective RO's approval for attending any course.

Realm of E.P.P.O.T Inspires

➤ In the words of G.I. Joe, "Knowing is half the battle."

In this case, knowing what's going on in the world around you.

In this realm, we have invited special speakers, who have been heroes in their own quest and will share on how they have overcome their own quest challenges to bring about an impact bigger than themselves. Their sharing seeks to help you get more inspired, expand your knowledge and perhaps gain new perspectives and possibly uncover new opportunities in your own quest.

You can earn coins in this realm:

- 10 coins awarded to the team for each quester who registers for any E.P.P.O.T Inspires activity
- Additional 10 coins awarded to the team with more than ½ of the team questers partaking in the same activity.
- For questers who are involved in more than one quests, coins will be awarded to quests you are involved in.

Side note: We are trying to engage Batman to share on how he cut down Gotham's criminal rates by 99%; Link on how he rescued the kingdom of Hyrule; and Mario with his very own tips and tricks to coin farming. So do stay tune to this realm!

By the way:

- TO stewards will send a droid line to players as and when there are new additions to the line-ups (who knows, we might just have Batman).
- Learning visits and in-physical activities are put on hold in compliance to pandemic curbing measures.

Part 4 – The Allies: TO Stewards, Advisors

- Ready to help you with any problem, at any time.

While there are no coins awarded in the two realms mentioned here, it is accurate to say that resources that you find here will be of value beyond measure of all coins and XP one can ever get. Pro-tip: It is recommended for players to schedule landing to the two realms, at the minimum, on a monthly basis and not wait till harvest moon rolls around.

Realm of E.P.F.O.T Guild

- You hear a voice say: “Live long and Prosper”.

Here you will meet the TO steward – your trusty wind-man and dependable sidekick.

To put things into perspective on what TO stewards can do for you and your crew, players may look to Spork from Star Trek.

Image designed By Piero Borgo, 'Live Long and Prosper'. Link to Dribbble portfolio

This half human half Vulcan character is part of the trio captaining the starship Enterprise. Present in every era of the star trek series, Spork⁵ is the go-to man for all sorts: an ambassador for interstellar conflict to a mediator across the ship’s chain of command⁶.

In a similar manner, TO steward seeks to play the role of bridging the needs of the you and your quest, with LTA’s.

Putting it out there.... TO Steward role includes having good sensing of the quest progress to ensure that team is on track with goals, milestones and expectations and to keep team accountable over project cycle. This is always because we have your best interest at heart and want to be there to help you succeed in your quest as much as we can.

⁵ Barack Obama described Spork as a “cool, logical, big-eared and level-headed, the centre of Star Trek’s optimistic, inclusive vision of humanity’s future. I love Spork” in his tribute to Leonard Nimoy.

⁶ Some examples are the peace negotiation with the Federation with the Klingons, and unifications of the Vulcans and the Romulans.

Not sure when or what to ping your TO steward for? You can look to TO steward for anything. Seriously. Here are some examples on what for/when you can turn to your TO steward:

YES	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Access team's entitlement to project loots of $5,000.• Assist questers' landing to neighbouring realms for participation of realm activities, under conditions of equality• Tap into the J.A.R.V.I.S for Starfleet manuals and data sheets that might aid your quest• Provide voice delivered or droid transmitted accounts of the quest status regularly• Bridge intra-galaotic cooperation with other life-forms to encourage the progressive development of quest• Seek peaceful adjustment to any situation that is deemed likely to impair the general welfare of friendly relations of any kind or threaten interplanetary cooperation and quest progress
NO	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Ask to visit Millennium Falcon (In case you are wondering, that's from Star Wars⁷)
MAYBE	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• A shoulder to cry on

By the way:

- Not sure what is your meeting with TO steward be like? Check out our cheat codes section: First contact, and beyond.
- Talk to your TO steward to arrange a consultation session with LTA B.E Hive and walk away with simple behavioural nudges to increase the social impact of your own team quest.

⁷ As a Quora answer aptly put it: Star Trek is science fiction and Star Wars, on the other hand, is space opera.

Realm of E.P.P.O.T Advisors

Applicable for Dare-to-try projects only

- The person to look for when stuck in the recesses of Misty Mountains.

"SHARE IN AN ADVENTURE" BY TAYLOR ROSE

Here, you find the E.P.P.O.T advisor – the Gandalf, if you are Frodo. In the movies 'Lord of the Rings', Gandalf⁸ is the tutelary or wisdom figure, and less of a participant – an all-important one nevertheless. Sometimes called a last-minute saviour, Gandalf turns up offering either (1) simple but powerful words of comfort, or (2) bringing reinforcements of the most unlikely crew (Dwarves, Elves, Eagles, Men of Dale, and Hobbits) with a crack of cavalry charge.

Not going to lie. While your advisor may not be white haired or hangs out with the middle earth creatures every Friday evening; it is safe to say that your advisor would be able to tap on his/her extensive connections to people outside your social circle, to lend a helping hand to your quest. With almost wizard level expertise, you can trust your advisor to lead your team out of sticky situations (hopefully not as climatic as one in the Battle of Five Armies, or like that with dragon Smaug) and get back into the fray as soon as possible.

Examples on what for/when you can turn to your E.P.P.O.T advisor:

YES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Apprise your E.P.P.O.T Advisor the ongoing of your quest • Seek new views and validation on the path charted for your quest • Establish relationships with other communities in Middle Earth
NO	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Intentionally ignore the multiple war cries and eagle-sent messages from your Advisor • Intentionally wear the One Ring to become invisible and hide from your E.P.P.O.T advisor • Send a snarky “you shall not pass” message • Send orcs and trolls into another team’s path
MAYBE	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Invite Sauron to the meeting • Get a ride on his trusty steed, Shadowfax (the lord of horses and greatest equine in Lord of the Rings)

So you and your team have dogged past krakens, quested with Link, shot fireballs with Mario and finished your quest! Now it's time to go up the podium, share your level-ups and the experiences of own quest journey. The goal is to inform and share your knowledge to LTA's real-life Jedi Master⁹ and amplify the growth of our innovation (or in this context, adventurous questing).

You and your team will be offered opportunity to showcase your work and effort quarterly. The platform and audience offered will be depending on the availability of the platform and appropriateness of the content. The type and format of the platforms available:

Glossary

E.P.F.O.T

Stands for 'Experimental. Prototype. People of Tomorrow'. A nod to Walt Disney's EPCOT (Google it!): 'Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow', a conceptual utopian town aspired to be a "real city that would 'never cease to be a living blueprint of the future'. In similar manner, EPPOT carries the same aspiration for the members: as ones who will improve and continue to inspire the greater community.
